About us

We police Britain's railways, providing a service to rail operators, their staff and passengers across the country. We also police the London Underground, Docklands Light Railway, the Midland Metro tram system, Croydon Tramlink, Sunderland Metro, Glasgow Subway and Emirates AirLine. Six million people use the rail network every day and we're here to keep you safe and help you feel secure on your journey.

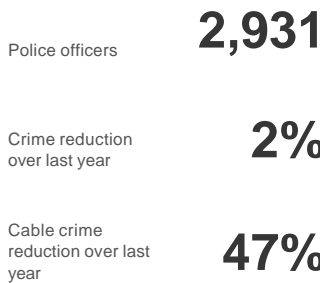

Our vision, mission and values

We aim to keep you safe on your journey and make you feel secure. Our officers follow our vision, mission and values so we can provide the best possible service.

Our strategy and plans work within a strategic policy to ensure we provide the best service for the public and value for money for the train operating companies who fund us. Every year we publish our policing plans that detail how we will meet the objectives outlined in our strategic policy.

Our structure

We've made the most radical changes to our policing structure in years. Find out how we intend to provide more frontline officers to cope with the demands of an expanding railway industry.
